Judge Cooper, of the Illinois State supreme court, was recently a candidate for a new teben. Powerful political influences were brought to bear to defeat him, it seems that Judge Cooper has shown an unusual independence on the beach, especially in dealing with questions brought to his court from the Chicago motion picture censors. In most instances he has overruled the censors.

His decision in the case of "The Birth of a Nation," which the police censor refused to pass, has become recognized as one of the most important legal decisions dealing with motion pictures. When it was found that his candidacy was opposed the motion picture exhibitors and exchange men took a hand in the campaign and upset all the political dope.

Screen Urged Election.

Screen Urged Election. During the weeks before the election every motion picture theater in ments on the screen between photo-plays of Judge Cooper's fitness for office and urged the voters to vote for him. The Cooper campaign be-came a virtual motion picture cam-paign, as there was more done with the motion picture than in public meetings.

paign, as there was more done with the motion picture than in public meetings.

Judge Cooper was re-elected by so great a majority that the political wiseacres immediately set out to find the reason, and they did not look beyond the motion pictures. They feit it was not necessary. With his motion picture asset Judge Cooper practically controlled the situation. No picture theater would carry a line of matter on its screen for another candidate and every one of them urged his election.

It is estimated that 700,000 people attend motion picture exhibitions in Chicago every day, and every day that number of people say arguments for Judge Cooper's election and no arguments for anybody else.

The Chicago convention was just about to meet and many of the wise men of the Republican pr. y were in the city when the judgeship campaign reached a head. The result is that now the Republicans have announce that they will put Candidate Hughes into every motion picture theater in the country in just the way the Cooper managers in Chicago worked it.

Kathlyn Williams' Real Romance.

Kathlyn Williams' Real Romance.

The announcement is made that Kathlyn Williams, the Selig star, and Charles F. Eyton, manager of the Moroseo-Paramount studio in Los Angeles, are married.

The news is the culmination of a real romance in the life of the actress that sounds very much like the scenario for a motion picture. She first met Eyton while she was a member of Williard Mack's stock company in Salt Lake City several years ago-before she entered the motion pictures.

They became engaged, and the wedding day was set. A quarrel separated them, and they did not see each other again until a year ago, when Morosco entered the motion picture business and appointed Eyton, who had been associated with his theatrical ventures, as manager of the picture plant.

AURORA, Ind., June 16.-Chaw C. Suerman had a narrow escape from drowning in Hogan creek, being rescued from the stream unconscious.

Suerman and several other men were teasing a "Billy" goat belonging to the Blackwell animal circus, showing near the creek, and he was attacked by the animal.

Suerman was attempting to escape by running along the bank, when the goat butted him off the embarkment, and he went down into about ten feet of water. The goat would not permit any one to approach the stream until one of the showmen arrived with a rope and succeeded in getting Suerman out as he was sinking for the third time.

Preparedness for swimming is the labor of the hour, and all roads lead to one place these days for the juvenile male contingent of Mt. Pleasant—the Rock Creek Park "swimmin' hole." Rock Creek Park "swimmin' hole."

Probably the popularity of the resort is best expressed by one of the park policemen, who does duty near the "hole." He says: "They're so numerous in that pool some days that there isn't over a half pint of water for each of them."

Dutch Food Prices High.

The "hole" has only recently come into real popularity, owing to amouncement by the park management that permits to go in swimming in the creek are no longer necessary. Now every hot afternoon, instead of taking the rather long trip to the Municipal swimming pools in Potomac Park, the young water lovers hike to the Hock Creek Park to what may appropriately be termed in the parlance of our forefathers "a crackerjack swimmin' hole."

The swimming place is located about a half mile upstream from Pierce's Mill. The park management has erected a small house in which the boys can change their clothing and a policeman finds time between admonshing reckless automobilists to keep vigil on the youngsters in the water. THE HAGUE, June 16.—The Socialist Deputy Shaper, in the Chamber of Deputies, interpellated the government on the high cost of living. He demanded extensive food control measures to prevent speculators carrying out swindling practices and to enable workers to buy foodstuffs at reasonable prices. Premier van der Linden in reply detailed the various measures already taken to prevent the exportation of home-grown foodstuffs, on which he said the embargo would continue until the quantity required for consumption at home was provided for.

hoe, executors and trustees under the will of Mary A. Atkins.

The petitioners, through Attorney George C. Gertman, advise the court that the deceased executed the deeds, conveying properties to David B. Atkins, Marion C. Atkins and the Oblate Sisters, of Providence, but never delivered them.

The contention is made that the deeds never passed from her control, and, therefore, are void for want of delivery in her lifetime. The property is located at 815, 817 and 819 C street southeast.
